

New Zealand

Outbound travel to the UK

New Zealand has a complex aviation market. With extensive outbound seat capacity, New Zealand travellers have a diverse range of options for travelling to the UK, with connecting flights via aviation hubs in South East Asia, North Asia, the Middle East, North America and Australia to gateway cities across the UK, including London Heathrow, London Gatwick, London Stansted, Manchester, Birmingham, Edinburgh and Cardiff.

Annual visits

In 2019

188,000
visits

Weekly departing seats (2019)

To gateway cities which have routes to the UK

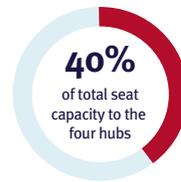

59,382

There is one stopping flight from New Zealand to the UK*

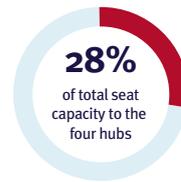

Routes from New Zealand to hub locations in 2019

There are four main gateway hubs en-route from New Zealand to the UK or via Australia (2019)

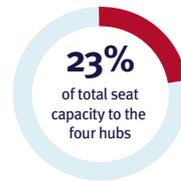

NORTH EAST ASIA

13 routes
22,583 seats to hub per week

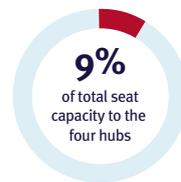

AMERICAS

7 routes
15,973 seats to hub per week

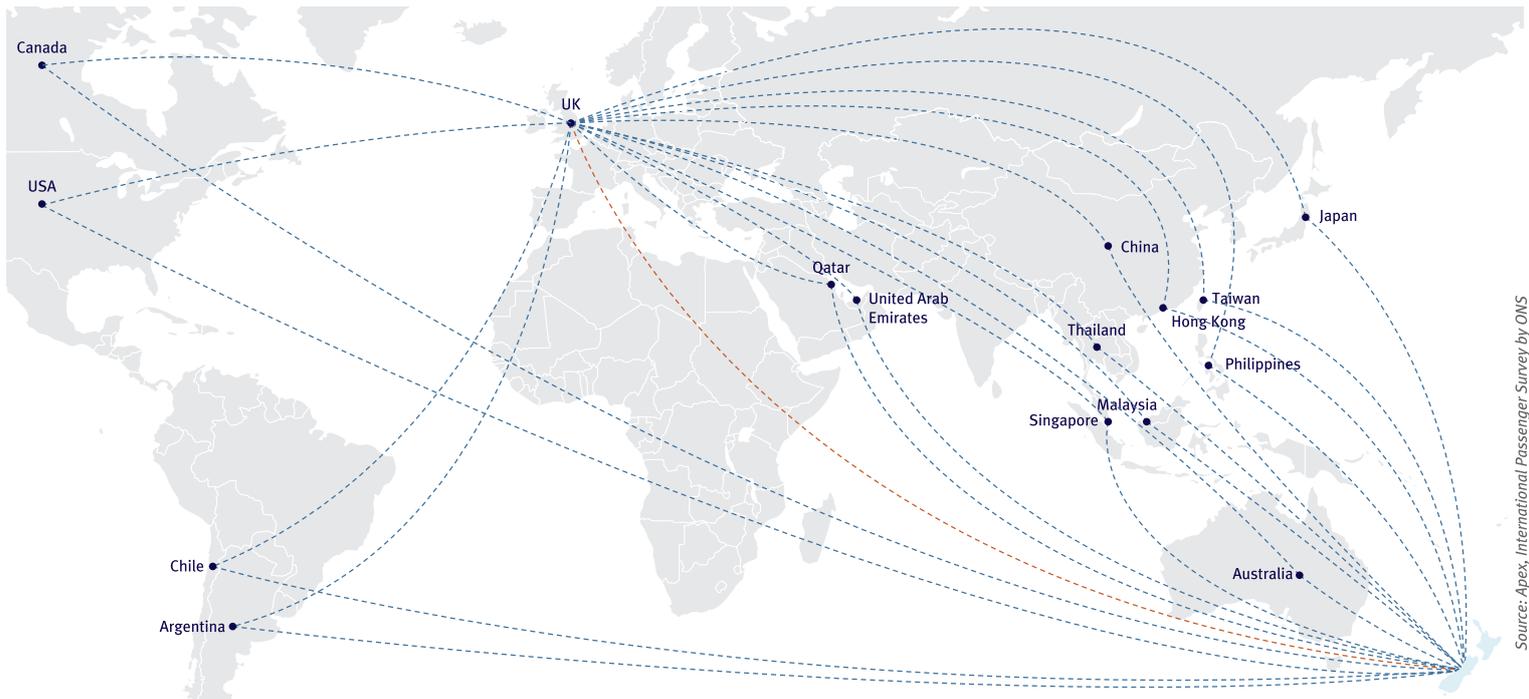

SOUTH EAST ASIA

5 routes
13,046 seats to hub per week

MIDDLE EAST

2 routes
5,349 seats to hub per week

Source: Apex, International Passenger Survey by ONS